Cultural Integration and Participation for Migrants

PAINS - NEEDS

Integration succeeds through relationships. If migrants have no Austrian acquaintances, integration will be delayed, feelings of exclusion will continue and language acquisition will take longer. Therefore, segregation, social inequalities and prejudices against migrants will continue to exist.

GAINS

A simple, low-threshold opportunity to come into continual contact with Austrians would increase the social participation opportunities for migrants and promote tolerance, cultural understanding and solidarity in society.

EXISTING PROBLEMS

Many migrants have experienced racism and discrimination and therefore withdraw to "people like themselves" and are then difficult to reach. Due to fears, language barriers and a lack of opportunities to get to know Austrians, communication and integration are often thwarted.

THE CHALLENGE

A comprehensive tool is needed that connects people from different cultures and languages in a low-threshold and fear-free manner. It should help to overcome language barriers and to reduce prejudices in order to support and shorten the integration process for migrants.
